REDISTRICTING BOARD NAMED

Men Appointed to Serve as Commission to Redistrict

LEGISLATIVE AND SENATORIAL DISTRICTS OF THE STATE.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 5.—Gov. Willson wrote letters to Judge Alex Humphreys and Andrew Cowan, Louisville; O. H. Waddle, Somerset; T. L. Edelen, Frankfort; John R. Allen, Lexington; John F. Hager, Ashland; L. J. Crawford, Newport; John T. Shelby, Lexington; Jere Sullivan, Richmond; C. U. McElroy, Bowling Green, asking them to serve as a commission to prepare a legislative and senatorial redistricting bill to be presented to the next legislature. He informs them that there is no provision for pay or expenses, but that he will ask the legislature to make an allowance. The commission is bipartisan. The letter follows:

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 5.—Gov. Willson has chosen a commission to redistrict Kentucky. He writes as follows:

"To Judge Alex P. Humphrey, Chairman, Louisville; Col. Andrew Cowan, Louisville; Mr. O. H. Waddle, Somerset, Ky.; Mr. T. L. Edelen, Frankfort, Ky.; Col. John R. Allen, Lexington, Ky.; Mr. John F. Hager, Ashland, Ky.; Hon. L. J. Crawford, Newport, Ky.; Mr. John T. Shelby, Lexington, Ky.; Hon. Jere Sullivan, Richmond, Ky.; Hon. C. U. McElroy, Bowling Green, Ky.:

"Gentlemen: Section 33 of the Constitution, which is the covenant of the people of Kentucky, binding upon all the people and their officers, commands that once in every ten years the State shall be divided into thirty-eight Senatorial districts and one hundred Representative districts, provided, in doing so, the principle requiring every district be as nearly equal in population as may be shall not be violated. The law now in force in the act of 1893, more than sixteen years ago.

Three years after the time commanded by the constitution the act of 1906 was adopted, redistricting the State, but in Ragland vs. Anderson, 125 Kentucky, the Court of Appeals, in an eminently non-partisan opinion, held that the inequality of this act is so glaring that it precludes the possibility that there was any attempt to divide the State into 100 legislative districts as nearly equal as may be, and that it was clearly violative of the constitutional inhibition against equality, and declared the equality of representation is a vital principle of Democracy; that without equality republican institutions are impossible, and that inequality of representation is a tyranny to which no people worthy of freedom will tamely submit; that equality of representation is the basis of patriotism; that no citizen will, or ought to, love the State which oppresses him, and that citizen is arbitrarily oppressed who is denied equality of representation with every other citizen of the Commonwealth.

"It is known to all the people, and was implied by the opinion of the Court of Appeals, that the existing law, the act of 1893, also clearly violates the constitution, but that it could not be held it was unconstitutional without throwing the state government into chaos, as it has been organized under the law after the adoption of the new constitution,

"The court expressed its faith that the members of the next General Assembly, impelled by their sense of duty, the obligations of their oath of office, together with the spirit of justice, which is the heritage of the race, will redistrict the State as the Constitution requires."

"It is clearly to be regretted by all that the last General Assembly did not redistrict the State, and that another election of Senators and Representatives must be held under the unequal and unfair act of 1893.

"The 'sense of duty,' the 'obligations of the oath of office' and 'the spirit of justice' which is the heritage of the race' will again impose upon the next General Assembly this duty of redistricting the State as the constitution requires.

"But the short term of sixty days and the many important matters which will be considered in that assembly, will endanger the chance of adopting a just re-districting bill, and in order to lessen the preliminary work I feel it my duty to the State to ask a bi-partisan commission of upright citizens to canvass the population, under the last census, and report to the Governor, for his recommendation to the General Assembly, a just and equal re-districting bill.

"For the good of the State, I invite you gentlemen, well-known citizens, equally divided in political affiliation, to take the Constitution, the geography and the census and prepare a measure to re-district the State, which will give a square deal to all the people of the State without regard to section or party.

"I feel sure that I can recommend to the General Assembly any plan which such men as you, or a majority, shall report to be fair and just. There is no provision of law to pay the expenses.

"The report will in no way bind the General Assembly, except in so far as its wisdom and fairness shall affect the opinions and consciences of the members.

"But I shall be glad to ask the General Assembly, if it approves the result of your labors, to pay the actual necessary expenses incurred by you in making the preliminary investigation. The sting of inequality and injustice in the present districts hurts the feelings of all good people. While perfect equality of population in all districts is not possible, it seems to be wholly a question of mathematics and geography to make all districts as nearly equal as may be. And I believe that if you make the calculations and report a just plan you will have a reward which men of your character value more than money in the respect and honor which such work will win from all the people.

"Judge Humphrey will act as chairman to confer with the other members and fix the date and place of your first meeting, after which the commission will do the work in its own way. You are also requested to consider what, if any, changes, in our present election laws are needed to protect the people in honest, just and fair elections. And, if time permits, to report whether the judicial district, appellate and circuit, the Congressional and Railroad Commission districts, are justly and fairly constituted, and if not, what changes are necessary to make them just and fair.

"It is my prayer and hope that your deliberations will result in plans which will put an end to all hard feelings over unequal and unfair representation, and will have a part in deserving and winning the respect of people and our institutions.

Yours truly,

"AUGUSTUS E. WILLSON,
"Governor of Kentucky."

Locomotive Blasts.

May Enjoin Merger.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 25.—Attorney General Breathitt will file suit to prevent the merger of the Louisville and Atlantic if he decides that the purchase of the latter road is illegal. A protest against the merger or the purchase of the Louisville and Atlantic by the Louisville and Nashville is being made by the citizens of Richmond on the grounds that the lines are competing and the deal cannot be legally consummated under the State statutes. Attorney General Breathitt was asked to investigate the case by Governor Willson, and he stated today that the filing of the suit would be his answer if he thought the deal illegal.

Water Tank at Morganfield.

The L. & N. R. R. Co., is building a large water tank near the station on Main street. Morganfield will be a terminal of the new line to Louisville and it is expected that trains will be running in two months. Hence the tank will be erected for permanent use and will draw water from the Thomas Coal Mines.—Morganfield Sun.

Clay Depot Robbed.

Tuesday night some unknown thief obtained entrance to the L. & N. depot by entering the colored waiting room, breaking out the screen in the ticket window at Clay. The cash drawer was torn to pieces and about $1.75 in pennies was taken.—Webster County Times.

Jame H. Cole, 53 years old, Third avenue, died at 12 o'clock Sunday morning. Cole has been bookkeeper at the L. & N. railroad at the Hotel shops for the last few years. His death was caused by asthma with which he has been severely ill for the last month. Mr. Cole leaves a son, Richard, of Mount Carmel, Ill.

President C. H. Bowen, of the Winchester Commercial Club, writes that an inspection of route has been made for a proposed traction line from Winchester to Sharpsburg, but as yet there is no organization or company formed.

Metcalf and Hart counties are reported to offer $300,000 for the building of an electric railway from Horse Cave to Edmont.

W. H. West is on the interurban during conductor Leahy's absence.

Deception of the Circus. A writer in Collier's who is as familiar with circus life as a press agent, but who doesn't respect trade secrets, says that the graceful young lady bareback rider, and the shapely creature who does thrillers on the flying trapeze, are frequently young men, made feminine in appearance by the addition of a blonde wig and excelsior where nature failed to qualify him for the role.

Making the Best of Life. Comparatively few men know how to live. The man who has no system in his life, who is regulated by no definite principle and proposes to himself no great and honorable end is not likely to show a satisfactory result. Reflect on the vast possibilities of your life—of honor, usefulness and happiness. Is your life as intelligent, as happy, as useful as you might have made it?

A Chump. "He is an awful chump, isn't he?" "Yes, he bought a ticket in an automobile raffle and then built a garage for the drawing came off." "What do you know about that?" "He disappointed when the drawing came off." "Not so you could not; he won the auto."—Houston Post.
